About the Faculty Development Programme

The advent of the Internet and world wide web (www) has made the access to information just a click away. The entire world is moving towards digital environment. Kudos to the affordable internet service. The new generation learners are the occupants of the global classroom and not necessarily the traditional classroom. They are more comfortable gathering information by accessing the Internet through gadgets such as mobilephones and desktops. The advancements in technology and the increasingly available Learning Management Systems have a great potential to improve educational outcomes. Educators must understand that the use of e-Content and ICT tools will only help improve the process of teaching and learning. Such advancements may enhance educational opportunities of the modern day learners and bring about tremendous outcomes. This FDP on e-Content development organized by the IQAC of Sadakathullah Appa College (Autonomous) is meant to enable the teaching fraternity with information on the methods and tools of e-Content development. This COVID-19 Pandemic has made it the Order of the Day. Thus, this course aims at providing the knowledge and skills for teachers to cater to present day learners and their learning styles.
