Preface

The youth aspire to speak in English. But natural shyness, inhibition that they commit mistakes, discouragement from friends detain them from making an initiative in this direction. Moreover, they are not familiar with the basics of English Grammar, sentence patterns and how a dialogue should be. This booklet is primarily meant to help those who wish to make English a routine in their life. We have also added a section on letter writing. It is hoped that teaching based on this booklet would be helpful to attain communicative competence.

We are thankful to the UGC for sanctioning a grant of Rupees 11 lakhs towards offering Remedial Coaching in English for SC, ST and Other Backward Communities during the XI Plan of the UGC.

We place on record our sincere thanks to the Management and the Principal for releasing the amount from out of the UGC grant sanctioned to our College under various merged schemes.

We welcome suggestions to further the content of the book.

Sentence Patterns

Sentences are made up of words. But words cannot be combined at random. They follow certain rules. They are modelled after patterns. We can use them as formulas to frame similar sentences. Here are certain basic sentence patterns in English.

1. S BE Complement
2. S V
3. S V O
4. S V IO DO

1) S BE Complement (The complement can be a noun, an adjective, an adverb, prepositional phrase)

You	are	a student.
You	are	students.
He	is	your teacher.
He	will be	the leader.
Mr. Ram	is	the officer.
This boy	is	very intelligent.
She	is	beautiful.
He	is	out.
They	are	in the house.
The pen	is	in his pocket.

(Note that the verb takes an object. The verb is called a transitive verb)

Subject	verb	object
I	love	you
God	loves	people
He	beat	the dog
The dog	bit	him
This factory	produces	cement
Our college	won	many prizes.
We	cannot blame	anybody.
We	study	English
He	writes	novels
They	are building	a house.

The following sentences have been jumbled.

Arrange them in the right order. Circle the object.

1. sells - this shop - sweets.

- g. It's been very nice talking to you, but I must leave now.
- h. Good-bye / Bye / Bye -Bye.
- i. Good night.
- j. See you (later / tomorrow / next week)

Note: Expression (a) to (g) are used when you want to end a conversation i.e. when the person you are talking to wants to continue, but you want to end the conversation. The last three expressions are used for taking leave when the conversation has ended.

UNIT 1.8

EXERCISE No. 16

Read through the following story of which every sixth word has been left blank. Find the word that will best fill each blank. For blanks 1-11 choose one of the three words given; for the remaining blanks supply the missing word.

Once upon a time, many centuries ago, there lived an old merchant. All (1) (its/her his) life he had toiled hard. (2) (buying /marking/collecting) and selling, with the result (3) (of/this) that he had made a lot (4) (of /by/in) money. As the years went (5) (later/after/by) he laid by more and (6) (much/more/many) riches. But the day came (7) (that/then/when) he felt that he had (8) (never/not/ neither) long to remain in this (9) (world/earth/time). He began to wonder (10) (why/what/that) he should do with his (11) (time/life/money). Now he had two sons. He (12) up his mind that he (13) not divide his money between (14) but that he would give (15)

..... all to the one who (16.) himself to be the cleverer (17.) the two. The problem to (18.) solved was that of finding (19.) which of the two sons (20.) the cleverer. He decided to (21.) this problem by giving them (22.) test. Calling the young men, he (23.) to them, "Here are two (24.) I want you to take (25.) rupee each, and then to (26.) out separately and buy something (27.) will fill this house. You (28.) not to spend more than (29.) rupee."

Unit:2 Verb and Tense

I. A verb can be either transitive or intransitive.

A transitive verb is one which can take an object.

e.g. Kill.

The cat killed the rat.

eat, beat, marry, taste etc.,

(It must be noted that only transitive verbs can be used in passive voice)

e.g. The rat was killed by the cat

An Intransitive verb is one which cannot take an object.

e.g. sit, stand.

(Intransitive verbs cannot be used in passive voice)

Verb

Transitive

(i) takes an object

(ii) can come in passive

Intransitive

(i) cannot take an object

(ii) cannot come in passive

II. Every verb, whether transitive or intransitive, has a number of tenses. The tenses in English are roughly classified into three major divisions.

1. Past tense
2. Present tense
3. Future tense

In each of these, there are further sub-divisions. The following table indicates the different tense forms.

Past Tense

Present tense

Future tense

So, on the whole, there are twelve tenses for any verb. There are also changes in the tense form according to the person or the subject (I person, II person or III person) and according to the Number of the subject (Singular or Plural).

(There is no change as per Gender in English).

Person

III. Illustrations of Tense forms:

1. Simple Past Tense

Pattern:

V + ed

I	killed.	I	walked.
We	killed.	We	walked.
You	killed.	You	walked.
He	killed.	He	walked.
She	killed.	She	walked.

It killed.
They killed.

It walked.
They walked.

Usage: Simple past tense is used to indicate an action completed in the past. Very often it is followed by an adverb showing when the action happened.

India got its Independence in 1947.
Raheem received the letter yesterday.

2. Past Continuous Tense

Pattern: was/were + V + ing

I was walking
We were walking
You were walking
He was walking
She was walking
It was walking
They was walking

Usage: The past continuous Tense is used to show that an action was in progress at some time in the past. The continuity is emphasized.
e.g. They were playing cricket even when it rained.

3. Past Perfect tense:

Pattern:

had + v + ed

I had killed.
We had killed.
You had killed.
He had killed.
She had killed.
It had killed.
They had killed.

Usage:

The past perfect tense is used to refer to 'distant' past i.e. If two actions that happened in the past are referred to, that action which had happened before the other is put in the past perfect tense.

e.g. When we reached the station, the train had left.

4. Past Perfect continuous Tense:

Pattern:

had + been + v + ing

I had been writing.
We had been writing.
You had been writing.
He had been writing.
She had been writing.

It had been writing.
They had been writing.

Usage: The past perfect continuous tense is used for an action that began before a certain point in the past and continued upto that time:
e.g. At that time he had been writing a novel for two months.

6. Simple Present Tense:

Pattern:

V + (s)

I go.	I play.
We go.	We play.
You go.	You play.
He goes.	He play.
She goes.	She play.
It goes.	It play.
They go.	They play.

Usage:

This Tense is used. a) To describes habits

e.g. He bathes everyday.

We eat three times a day.

b) to describe general truths

e.g. The sun sets in the west.

c) in running commentaries

e.g. Ramesh kicks the ball, it reaches Habeeb who passes it onto vivek.

7. Present continuous Tense:

Pattern:

am / is / are +v +ing

I	am	singing.
We	are	singing.
You	are	singing.
He	is	singing.
She	is	singing.
It	is	singing.
They	are	singing.

Usage:

This tense is used to describe an action happening at the moment of speaking.

e.g. The boys are playing hockey.

It is also used to indicate an arranged event that is going to happen in the near future.

e.g. Rajiv Gandhi is arriving here tomorrow.

8. Present Perfect Tense:

Pattern:

have / has +v + ed

I	have	finished.
We	have	finished.
You	have	finished.

He has finished.
 She has finished.
 It has finished.
 They have finished.

Usage:

The present perfect tense is used to indicate completed activities in the immediate past.

e.g. The Principal has just gone out.

This tense, like the present perfect continuous tense, may also be used to refer to an action that began in the past and continues till now.

e.g. We have lived in this house for the past ten years.

9. Present Perfect continuous tense:

Pattern:

have / has + been +v+ing

I have been playing.
 We have been playing.
 You have been playing.
 He has been playing.
 She has been playing.
 It has been playing.
 They have been playing.

Usage: The Present Perfect continuous tense is used for an action that started in the past and is still continuing.

He has been lecturing for three hours.

He has been lecturing since 10 o'clock.

Note:

'Since' is used to refer to the starting point of time. 'for' is used to show the total duration.

10. Simple Future Tense:

Pattern:

shall / should	+ V
will / would	+ V

I	shall	go.
We	shall	go.
You	will	go.
He	will	go.
She	will	go.
It	will	go.
They	will	go.

Usage:

The simple future tense is used to indicate an action that is to happen in the future.

e.g. : You should come to class tomorrow.
She will leave for Madras on Monday.

11. Future Continuous Tense:

Pattern:

Shall / Will etc. + be + ing.

I shall be teaching.
We shall be teaching.
You will be teaching.
He will be teaching.
She will be teaching.
It will be teaching.
They will be teaching.

Usage:

The future continuous tense represents an action that will be happening in future time.

e.g. I shall be going on train by this time tomorrow.

This tense may also indicate a planned event.

e.g.: The Professor is taking a special class coming Saturday.

12. Future Perfect Tense:

Pattern:

shall / should etc. + have + V + ed.

I shall have completed.
We shall have completed.
You will have completed.

He will have completed.
She will have completed.
It will have completed.
They will have completed.

Usage:

The future perfect tense is used to indicate the completion of an action in the time to come.

e.g. I shall have passed my degree course.

13. Future Perfect continuous Tense:

Pattern:

Shall / will etc. + have been + V + ing.

I shall have been studying.
We shall have been studying.
You will have been studying.
He will have been studying.
She will have been studying.
It will have been studying.
They will have been studying.

Usage:

This tense is used to indicate an action represented as being in progress over a period of time that will end in the future.

By next September he will have been living in America for four years.

Note: This tense is very rarely used in English.

Exercise

1. Hameed usually (encourage) singers.
2. At present they (work) in this firm.
3. Lalitha (study) since 5 am.
4. Last month Ananthi (give) money to Sridhar.

12. Revathi (send) her reply to you just.
13. The family (leave) the town by the end of next year.

Unit:3.1

IRREGULAR VERBS

The regular procedure of getting past tense and past participle forms in English is by adding - ed to the end of a verb stem.

verb-stem	Past Tense	Past Participle walk	walked	walked
fill	filled	filled

Such verbs are known as Regular verbs.

Some other verbs, however, do not follow this rule at all.

e.g., go-went-gone. Such verbs are called Irregular verbs.

They have to be memorized as fixed items. Or else we may go wrong in Simple Past Tense, Perfect tense and in passive voice constructions. So memorize the following:

2.3 ARTICLES

A, an and the are articles, A and an are called indefinite articles; the is called the definite article.

A is used when the next word begins with a consonant sound e.g. a man; a teacher; a cinema; a uniform.

(Note that in uniform the letter u is pronounced as 'you')

An is used when the next word starts with a vowel sound

e.g. an American; an Arab; an engineer; an interesting story, an hour, an honest businessman.

(Note that in hour and honest the letter h is silent)

Where to use the indefinite articles

1. Use a/an before a noun when it is introduced for the first time.
A student bought a notebook in a bookshop.
2. Use a/an when a noun stands for things that can be counted.

A wristwatch is quite useful.

*Tirunelveli is not a big city. (Tirunelveli is not big city)

A tiger is a dangerous animal.
*(Tiger is dangerous animal).

3. Use a/an before nouns indicating professions and occupations. Words such as hero, genius, fool, thief, liar also need a/an.
*My father is a teacher. (My father is teacher)
*She wants to become a doctor. (She wants to be doctor)
*He is a thief. (He is thief)
*He is a hero. (He is hero)

4. Use a/an when referring to price, speed etc. (a / an; per)
Hero Honda motor bikes give 60-80 kilometers a litre of petrol. But you should not ride at a speed more than 40 kilometres an hour. Petrol is sold at Rs. 40/- a litre in India.

Where to use the definite article the?

1. Use the before nouns already mentioned and referred to again. e.g. A man went for a walk with his dog. The man fell into a well and the dog began to bark.
2. Use the before a singular countable noun which stands for a class.

The cycle is the common man's vehicle.

The elephant is very big and strong.

3. Use the before a noun which is the only one available in the given situation.

The teacher drew a map of Tamil Nadu on the blackboard.

4. Use the to change an adjective into a collective noun.

rich (Adjective) the rich (noun)

The rich should care for the poor.

The deaf, the blind and the dumb need our sympathy.

Note: * indicate incorrect sentences.

5. Use the before nouns to refer to the community collectively.

(e.g. the British, the English, the Chinese, the Dutch etc.)

The Indians are proud of their ancient culture.

The English speak English.

The Germans are a proud race.

Note that If the is removed the reference is to the language, not to the community.

English is an international language.

Chinese language is written from top to bottom.

6. Use the before the names of mountain ranges, or ranges of hills, but not before the names of single mountains or hills.

The Alps, The Himalayas, but Everest.

7. Use the before the names of rivers, canals, seas, oceans, valleys, deserts and forests.

London is on the Thames.

Calcutta is on the Hooghly.

8. Use the before the names of municipal or government departments and before the names of shops, business houses, industrial concerns, banks etc. except when they begin with a personal name.

The State Bank of India, the Ministry of Education.

The Public library, The Sea-view Hotel, The University of Madras.

9. Use the before the names of ships and trains, if they do not form part of the name itself.

The M.V. Chidambaram used to sail between Singapore and Madras.

The Nellai Express starts at 6.40 p.m. from Tirunelveli Junction.

The Vaigai Express and the Pallavan Express are superfast trains in Tamil Nadu.

But don't use the when only the mode of travel is indicated.

Many students come to college by bicycle.

Travel by train is costlier than by bus.

10. Use the before the plural or a family name to refer to the whole family.

The Nehrus, the Kennedys, the Gandhis etc.

Where to omit Articles (a, an, the)?

1. Do not put the before the names of substances if they are used in a general sense.
Gold is a precious metal.
Milk contains many vitamins.
 But use the if the reference is to a particular kind or specimen of the substances.
The gold mined in Kolar is very little.
The milk sold here is watery.
2. Don't use the before the names of meals if they refer to the meals generally, as a part of the daily routine.
 We take idli and dosai for breakfast.
 They were at lunch when I entered.
 When do you have dinner?
 But use the if the meal is a particular one, e.g. a social function.
The dinner will be served immediately after the marriage function.
3. Don't use the before plural nouns when they are used in a general or a universal sense.
 Children like toys.
 Students must read books.
 But if particular items are referred to, then the must be used.
The children in our house liked the toys I gave them.
4. Don't use the before the names of games.
I play volley ball.
Cricket is popular in India.

- (Similarly, chess, tennis, football, hockey, etc.,)
5. Don't use the before the names of countries unless the name suggests that the country is made up of smaller units.
 France, Germany, Italy, China and Pakistan are all republics.
 (Not * the France etc.)
 But: The United States of America is a Super Power.
 (If the word is preceded by such words as Kingdom, Republic, Federation etc. then the is necessary).
 6. Don't use the before the words King, Queen and Pope if the name follows:
King Fahd, Queen Elizabeth; Pope John.
 7. Don't use the in such expressions as go to school, go to church, go to mosque, go to temple, go to hospital, go to prison etc. because the reference is for the purpose for which the building exists.
Do you go to college regularly? (= for studies)
If you are ill, you should go to hospital (= for treatment)
 If the visit is for some other purpose, then the must be used.
 My father came to the college to get an admission for me.
 The Principal went to the hospital to meet the Dean.

('Go to the office' is the right expression, not go to office)

8. Don't use any article before abstract nouns and mass nouns except when specific.
All of us seek happiness.
Air and water are indispensable to man.
9. Don't use any article after sort of, type of, kind of, manner of etc.
What type of food is this?
I have never met this kind of person.
10. Don't use the before man when it is used to refer to the human race as a whole.
Man is mortal.
Man does not live by bread alone.
Man loves freedom.
If the reference is to a particular man, then articles are necessary.
I met a man on the road.
The man standing at the door is known to me.

Exercises:

1. Insert a or an in the blank spaces.

- a) elephant is a very strong animal.
- b) Italy is European country.
- c) Is there hospital in this town?
- d) Everyone respects honest person.
- e) We stayed at hotel in the centre of the town.

2. Insert the if necessary; otherwise, but X mark in the blank

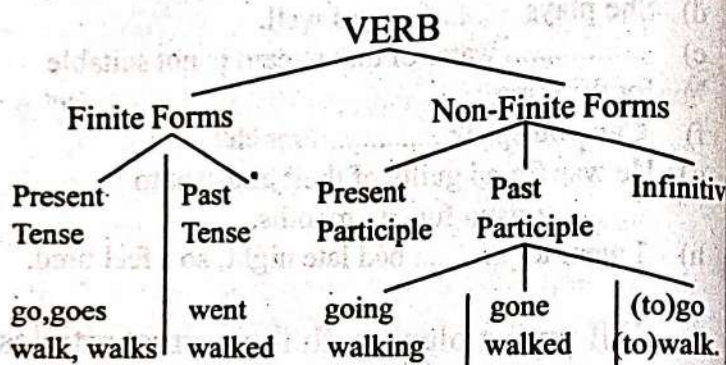

- a) gold is found in Australia and South Africa.
- b) The box was made of wood
- c) meat that we had for dinner was tough.
- d) She plays card well.
- e) water of that stream is not suitable for drinking.
- f) Can you speak French?
- g) He was found guilty of theft and sent to prison for six months.
- h) I went to bed late night; so I feel tired.

Fill up the blank with the correct articles where necessary

When I was very small child, I was made to learn by heart number of fables. Among those I learnt was "The Ant and the Grasshopper." In this fable ant spends whole summer working hard and gathering its winter store; while grasshopper spends his time doing nothing. When winter comes, he goes to ant and begs for little food. "What were you doing in summer time?" asks ant. grasshopper replies, "I made music for bees while they worked. "Upon this ant says, "you had better go and dance for them now."

Unit 3.4 Notes on Anomalous finites

Any English verb has two finite forms and three Non-finite forms. Finite forms have tense in them.

Note that if there is no finite form in the verb part of a sentence, the sentence is incorrect. It means that mere Non-Finite forms are not enough in the verb part.

Correct Sentences

She went.
She walks.
They walk.

Incorrect

*I going.
*I gone.
*I to go.

If there is atleast one finite form and some other (1,2,or3) Non-Finite form, the sentence is right.

He is going. (is=F; going = NF)

He is going (is= F ; going = NF)
He has gone (has=F; gone = NF)
He must have passed. (must=F; have=NF; passed=NF)
He may be coming. (may =F; be =NF; coming =NF)
He could have been sleeping (could =F; have=NF; been =NF; sleeping =NF)

Now, look at the following tables:

Finite Forms		Non - Finite Forms
Present Tense	Past tense	Present Participle	Past Participle	Infinitive
am, is, are have, has do, does shall will, can may, must ought, need dare	was, were had did should would, could might used	being having had doing	been had done	(to) be (to) have (to) do

You can see that there are 24 words on the left side. These 24 words are specially known as ANOMALOUS FINITES.

There are many uses for anomalous finites. The most important uses are two:

1. (The anomalous finites help in the formation of questions.
(Interrogative sentences))

2. The anomalous finites help in the formation of negative sentences.

There are two main types of questions in English.

1. Yes/No Questions

2. Wh - questions.

Yes/No questions are those questions which demand a Yes/No.

E.g. Are you well?

Yes, I am well.

No, I am not well.

Wh - questions are those questions which begin with question word like who, whom, what, when, where, how, why, whose

E.g. What is your name?

How did you come?

How to form Yes/No questions from statement:

Step 1: Identify the Anomalous Finite (any one of 24)

Step 2: Bring the Anomalous Finite before the subject.

E.g. This is Sadakathullah Appa college.

Is this Sadakathullah Appa college?

(If the Anomalous Finite is hidden in the verb, split it and bring it out) goes = does + go go = do + go

went = did + go

E.g. He came to college.

He did come to college.

Did he come to college?

How to Form WH - Questions?

Step 1: Identify the Anomalous Finite.

Step 2: Bring the Anomalous Finite before the subject.

Step 3: Place the WH - word before the Anomalous Finite.

E.g. He is going home.

Is he going home? (Yes/No question)

Where is he going? (Wh - question)

(Again if the Anomalous Finite is hidden bring it out)

E.g. He came.

He did come.

Did he come?

How did he come?

How to Form Negative sentences?

Step 1: Identify the Anomalous Finite (any one of 24)

E.g. She can sing she cannot sing.

He is coming He is not coming.

You had spoken You had not spoken.

(Again, If the Anomalous Finite is hidden in the verb, bring it out)

The Minister spoke at the meeting.

The Minister did speak at the meeting.

The Minister did not speak at the meeting.

Letter Writing

With the advent of the telephone and cell phone messages facilities the personal letter is dying. However, at the official level the letter is still in use. The letter is an effective medium to represent our needs and claims. A well written letter can inform, impress, argue, convince and do a series of jobs for the sender. And an ill written letter will only show the weakness of the writer. It can disgrace the bearer too. Honoured is one who carries a well written letter.

How to write a letter? Every letter has one and the same format. You write the "from address" first. And then you write the "to address". This is the heading this is followed by the greeting or salutation.

For eg: Sir, Dear Sir, Respected Madam,....

You may mention the subject of the letter and /or give the reference number of the previous letter if any; the message or body of the letter follows. This varies from letter to letter. Often you may retain the other parts of the letter and change the body so as to write a new letter. After finishing the letter you write the subscription.

For example: Yours Faithfully, Yours Respectfully, Yours Truly

Students should use only these two subscription while writing to their teachers/principal. At last you sign the letter.

For eg: You sign and write your name below.

You may add the place and date either in the very beginning or towards the last.

For the sake of clarity letters may be typed. The watchword in letter writing is brevity. Personal letters may not follow the usual format. The rule here is that you may follow your own format. Not only the matter but the manner too can be personal. Personal letters are best hand written.

We are giving you a series of model letters. You may need them during your course of study in Sadakathullah Appa College. Go through them first of all to learn that it is a part of the rich tradition of our college to write letters either to the head of your department or the principal when you have to tell them something or ask something. Also learn the format of these letters. Both the format and the body change from letter to letter. Note them. Study them carefully.
